Head of Great Department Store in London Shot Down by Man He Had Not Passed by That

GIVES NAME OF WHITELEY

Police Ascertain, However, That He Had Not Passed By That Name-Attempts Suicide.

LONDON, January 24.—A dramatic tragedy startled London to-day, when William Whiteley, one of the most unique, and, at the same time, one of the most prominent figures in the business world, was shot dead in his store by a youth claiming to be his son. The assassin then attempted to blow out his own brains.

The name of Whiteley has become a household word, in England, owing to the enormous department store in London run by a company of which Mr. Whiteley was president, and he was the ploneer in such enterprises.

In such enterprises.

The crime occurred shortly after midday. An unknown young man was accorded a private interview with Mr. Whiteley in the latter's private office, where the two men remained closeted for a few moments. As Mr. Whiteley emerged from his office it was observed that the young man was following and importuning him, while Mr. Whiteley was waving his visitor off and threatening to call the police. Suddenly the young man whipped out a revolver and fired two shots point-blank at Mr. Whiteley. The bullets lodged in Mr. Whiteley's head, and he fell dead. Before the assassin could be secured he turned his weapon upon himself and inflicted what is believed to be a mortal wound.

The personality of the assassin and the motives for his crime are enveloped in much mystery. He gave the name of Cecil Whiteley, but relatives of William Whiteley disclaim all knowledge of him. The police found no papers or other written matter on his person to lead to the establishment of his identity, but they discovered his place of residence, and learned that he never had called himself Whiteley there. The clothing of this young man bore the initials "H. P." The police are of the opinion that the motive for this crime, when discovered, will show that there were present none of the elements of revenge for personal injury, but rather that the attack upon Mr. Whiteley was a result of a fancied grievance.

Though it is known that a number of places have been and are now under advisement as a temporary location for the Richmond post-office while the proposed new Federal building is being constructed, yet it is the opinion of those in charge of the situation that nothing of a tangible nature will be done with reference to the matter pending the passage of the emergency appropriation bill by Congress. This bill contains an item of $20,000 for the expenses of temporary quarters, and if it should not go through, of course, the work will be delayed, and the office

Glee Club Entertained.

Glee Club Entertained.

The Woodland Glee Social Club was delightfully entertained in the home of Mrs. M. E. Boze, on Twenty-first Street, by her daughters, Misses Madeline and Mayme Boze, a few evenings ago. The halls and parlors were prettily decorated in paims, and the dining-room was artistically arranged in the colors of the club, in the midst of which the words, "The Woodland Glee," in silver letters produced a most charming effect. Miss Mamle Shelton added much to the pleasure of the evening by several beautiful vocal selections, as did also the club's male quartet. At 11 o'clock the guests were invited into the dining-room, where refreshments were served. Mrs. Boze assisted her daughters in receiving and entertaining their guests. Among those present were Misses Mamic Shelton, Gertrude Acree, Ella Felvey, Madeline Boze, Jessie Owens, Madeline Dominici, Allien Hord, May Felvey, Mamic Boze: Messrs, Ernest Kandall, Frank Williams, Charlie O'Rork, Forrest Steward, Russell high and Julian Hord.

It was said that the personnel of the convention was two-thirds for a State prohibition, but Governor Glenn to-night, in a lengthy and spirited speech, advised that no demand be made on the present Legislature for an election on prohibition, as he was advised that the request would not be granted. He thought it best to just call for strengthening and enforcement of present laws with State prohibition as the ultimate goal, however. Heriot Clarkson, of Charlotte, was chairman of the convention, which held three sessions—morning, afternoon and to-night antil past midnight.

The joint committee on railroads and other public service committees to-night heard representatives of the newspapers of the State on amendments to the pending bills as to transportation, allowing the present law as to contracts with newspapers for transportation to stand, and in the end the amendment was voted down by a vote of six to five. This leaves the Graham bill, under which papers could only receive mileage for specified contracts on space dates for advertising.
